The Burgher Community of Bern created a foundation of the Canton, the City and the initial planting of the park. Like the half of today's vegetation dates back to the late 19th century. Approximately designed by the architect André Lambert. Like the building itself, the park was also museum park hall and offices. Contains storage rooms, an exhibition 2006 and 2009 to the designs by the building was completed in 1922. A first extension situated at the rear period from which some of the central architecture was intended to revive the golden age of the educated and gallant Bern. EATING & DRINKING

The Bistro Steinhalle is located in the former Lapidarium of the Bernisches Historisches Museum. During the summer the Museum park is used as a picnic area.

MUSEUM SHOP

The Museum shop has a varied and attractive line of products. These include carefully selected objects (e.g. high-quality replicas of ancient jewellery or medieval drinking glasses) as well as souvenirs, games and carefully selected contextual historical literature and gift books.

In the bookshop you will find a wide range of fine books on cultural and historical subjects. The publications of the Bernisches Historisches Museum are also on sale here.

EDUCATION & OUTREACH

For adults, families and children

Would you like to learn more about the history of Bern from the Stone Age to the 20th century or about fascinating objects from Far Eastern cultures and past times? We offer tours of all our permanent exhibitions and the temporary exhibitions on request by experienced museum guides. We will be happy to adapt the themes touched on by the exhibition tours to suit your needs.

Einstein Museum

Albert Einstein (1879–1955) was living in Bern when his theory of relativity turned our perceptions of space and time upside down in 1905. As part of the Bernisches Historisches Museum, the Einstein Museum, approximately 1000 m² of exhibition space, offers an account of the life of this fascinating physicist in all his facets.

As part of the Bernisches Historisches Museum, approximately 1000 m² of exhibition space will cover Einstein’s life from childhood to his death, as well as the theory of relativity and his other ground-breaking discoveries, while at the same time illustrating the history of the theory of relativity in the broadest possible context.

Numerous exhibitions, special guided tours of the temporary exhibitions, special meetings and high-quality publications offer an account of the life and work of this brilliant physicist in all his facets.
